Sunday Meditation

How often have we heard the old adage: practice makes perfect. It drove me crazy when Mom would say it as I practiced my piano scales yet again. But Peter's declaration of faith in today's Gospel is a good case in point of just how true that saying really is. Throughout the Gospels, we see the many times Peter tried to practice his faith in Jesus. Attempting to walk on water—and sinking! Or swearing that he will stand by Jesus—and then denying him! And yet, today's Gospel is a shining example of a time when Peter did get it right, when all of his practice finally paid off. Out of all Jesus' followers, Peter is the one whose faith allows him to be the first to proclaim that Jesus is the Messiah. Each week when we come together to celebrate the Eucharist, we, too, profess our faith in Jesus as God's only Son, our Lord. And each week we are sent forth to practice—what we have proclaimed. When we refuse to hold on to hurts or grudges and offer forgiveness to another, when we welcome the newly arrived refugee next door, when we act with compassion to the less fortunate, we practice what we have proclaimed. "Who do you say that I am?" Today, we go forth to live out the answer in the world.

PRAYER FOR THOSE WHO SUFFER

Most Sacred Heart of Jesus, You care for us and provide us with all that we need. We pray for healing for all who suffer because of illness or advanced age. We pray especially for Catherine Cook and her daughter, Christine; for Clyde Cree, Evangeline (Laura) Connors, Richard Peters, Chester Joseph Thompson, Sandra Terrance, Anne Terrance, Anna Mae Besaw, Eva Seymour, Angus McDonald, Linda Hale, Laurie Connors, Robert Sunday, Marlene Garrow, Michael Smoke, and all those undergoing dialysis and chemotherapy this week. Be with us, Lord. Heal us in body, soul, and spirit that we may rejoice in Your blessings. Amen.
